The Gut Instinct –

Developing Awareness and Authenticity

Debra Kimberling
Product Support Engineering

Carol Becker
Material Review Board
Design Engineering

Enthusiastically received at the 2009 SWE National Conference, Debra and Carol present a look at the anatomy of the brain, the science behind how it processes information, and how it can take over your decision-making abilities. You will see the research behind how the brain decodes relationships, learn the fundamental building blocks of emotional intelligence, and gain an insight to how great leaders effectively tap into their gut instincts to create an authentic communication style.
